

Brian Johnston (left) and Andy Andrews.

(Picture courtesy Herts Mercury).

DOWN ANDY'S WAY

The 'Down Your Way' Radio 4 programme visited Hertford in January and among those interviewed by presenter Brian Johnston was well-known winemaker Andy Andrews. He was host to Mr Johnston in his wine "den" and discussed his involvement with winemaking, judging and beekeeping. He and his wife eat about 50 lb of honey a year, all from Mr Andrews' own hives.

As a former Mayor, Mr Andrews also talked a little of Hertford's history – and said he bought his house there because it had a good, dry cellar and a 90-year-old vine!